650 S.W.2d 287 (1983) Jerry WHITTINGTON and Donna Whittington, Petitioners, v. W.R. GRIFFIN, Sr., Respondent. No. C-281. Supreme Court of Texas. January 26, 1983. Rehearing Denied March 2, 1983. John P. Lincks, Ellen A. Smith, Houston, for petitioners. Wayne D. Jordan, Houston, for respondent. McGEE, Justice. This is a suit for damages arising from the sale of mineral interests. Petitioners sued respondent, W.R. Griffin, Sr., who at the time of the sale had actual, constructive, and apparent authority to act for this seller. The jury found actual authority and no fraud. We find no evidence supporting the jury's findings of apparent authority and constructive fraud. We will reverse the judgment of the court of appeals and render judgment that petitioners take nothing. The parties bought land in Harris County on July 1, 1974. Griffin acted as the selling agent for the seller. The record is unclear whether Griffin had authority to sell other minerals besides those in question, but we assume he did. In their pleadings petitioners alleged Griffin had actual authority to act as agent for the seller and was acting within the scope of his authority at all relevant times. Griffin by his plea of "no evidence" and "insufficient evidence" denied actual authority. A special issue inquiring if Griffin had apparent authority was submitted to the jury at the close of all of the evidence. The jury found that Griffin had apparent authority and that the apparent authority was not the result of a fraudulent act or omission on his part. Petitioners' first two points of error complain of the lack of evidentiary support for the jury's findings on actual and apparent authority. Petitioners' third point of error complains of an improper argument by counsel for respondent in the presence of the jury. Where, as here, the jury found actual authority, we need not reach the question of apparent authority. A principal who is dealing directly with a third person must use ordinary care and prudence to ascertain whether the agent has authority. The general rule is that if the principal, with knowledge of the agent's lack of authority, holds him out to third persons as having authority, and the third person, believing *288 the agent to have authority, deals with the agent, the principal is estopped from denying

As noted earlier, the menu options for that May 24 gig have been posted up on Venue Nightclub's Facebook page. Reckless Kelly, the '70s-influenced Tex-Mex hybrid that booked Neil Young for halftime last year, will host R&B/hip-hop duo B.o.B. and producer DJ Mustard, who has remixed for Beyoncé and Rihanna, on Sept. 2. Indie rockers Bad Suns will close out the event. The menu will feature a $7.99 combo that includes a glass of wine, a cocktail and a beer, with the $9.99 option adding a bottle of beer to the bill. An elevated drink menu and food menu will also be available. The food menu, which is yet to be posted online, will include nachos and a Mexican taco. There will also be a "special guest chef" helping out with the food duties. All of these menu options will be on sale at the door, as they are at most shows. In late March, Tootsie's restaurant announced that it was cutting ties with Young and his management, citing Young's "poor performance as an artist" over the past few years. Young responded by saying he would have no comment, though he later said he would perform at the anniversary celebration. Young recently played his last show in the Fort Worth suburb of Odessa in April. The following month, he canceled his remaining shows, including his performance at the now-canceled Freaks Festival. On May 3, Young said on Twitter that he had played his last show. The show was to be his first since he canceled all his remaining tours last year. Young, who was suffering from kidney problems, canceled the last remaining shows on his "Journey Through the Past" tour in the spring, blaming his doctor for misreading the results of a blood test. The present invention relates generally to management of computer systems. In a large computer system, a component of the system may be subject to failure, for example a processor or a memory. Failing components are replaced or repaired and it is important to identify the reason that a component has failed. To this end, the computer system may be configured so that one or more components are tested periodically so that an early warning of impending failure can be obtained. It is known for computer systems to include test modules (e.g. ROM modules) which can be inserted
